

Note on international conference @ IMDR

Greetings from IMDR!!

We are glad to invite research papers for our upcoming International Conference on Emerging Economies, Trade and Markets scheduled on 10th and 11th March 2023.

The International Conference on Emerging Economies, Trade and Markets is a significant gathering of economists, business leaders, policymakers, and experts in the field of trade and economics. It provides a platform for participants to exchange ideas and discuss the latest developments, trends, and challenges facing emerging economies in the global trade and market space. The conference typically covers a wide range of topics including but not limited to international trade, economic growth and development, innovation, entrepreneurship, and financial markets. It also provides a great opportunity for participants to network and establish business and academic collaborations.

The conference provides a unique opportunity for participants to gain insights into the latest research, trends, and best practices in the field of emerging economies, trade and markets. It also provides a platform for policymakers to engage with stakeholders, share experiences, and collaborate on the development of effective policies and strategies that can support economic growth and development in emerging economies.

Key themes that are usually discussed at the conference include the impact of globalization on emerging economies, trade policies and their effect on economic development, the role of innovation in boosting competitiveness, and the challenges and opportunities facing small and medium-sized enterprises. The conference also opens doors to issues in management and Geopolitics.

Proceedings of the conferences will be considered for Scopus listed publications (subject to review and acceptance) and peer review journals.
